Regiments at Camp Bendley Had Six Brigadier-Generals and Nix Colonels, and the Cost Was 805,000 The Jag Cellars, NIANTIC, Sept. 1 .- The military army of the commonwealth of the Nutmer State has gone from Grassy Niantic, but by no means is it forgotten. On the contrary, in the prophetic re-frain of the poet, it left footprints, so to speakno end of them-on the sands of time-foot-prints that, no doubt, another tenting on Niantic Plain, a foriorn and thirsty soldier seeing, may easily load up again. These footprints, mutely eloquent and multi-tudinous, plugged deeply into the earth, are of the same general shape and dimensions of a sunken soap box. They are extraordinary and significant. Indeed, the soul of the Connecticut Prohibitionist, traversing the abandoned camp and scanning them, is filled with the same sort of gloom and awe that pervaded Robinson Crusom, confronted with a No. 14 foot-track on his desert island. The Prohibitionist, however, has the advantage of Crusoe in one respect; he knows precisely what they imply—they were the jag traps of the State militiamen.

In the judgment of the Prohibition delegates, who, in accord with the tactics of their party, are despatched to the camp ground annually after the encampment to gauge the size of the sceptre wielded by King Alcohol there, between 1,200 and 1,500 of the tiny jag cellars were scooped out by the soldiers in broad Niantio Plain this year. It is a pleasing conviction on the part of the military authorities—a "cheerful delusion," the Prohibitionists term it—that the Connecticut militiaman drinks no rum in the Connecticut militiaman drinks no run in camp, and for the reason that the State has as high as 4,300 horse power, with indeed as high as 4,300 horse power with indeed in than half the air pressure of the Havock in which 3,500 horse power was developed. It can which 3,500 horse power was developed. Heate been puring down the "company's trunk," which it is lawful to fetch into camp, year after year, until it is such a wee little thing now that it is impossible, absolutely impossible, cosmuggle any rum in it? On the other hand, the Prohibition emissaries view with alarm and point with anything but pride at the swarm of jag holes, gaping with dry mouths, with which the camp ground is pitted, and declare that the

the camp ground is pitted, and declare that the militia imbibed more hard and more soft stuff this year than ever before.

"Why," indignantly remarked a State Probibitionist yesterday, "Niantic was fairly haptized in rum."

The cold fact, both in the view of the State press and the tax payers, is that Camp Bradley was not a blooming success this time; not that anybody objects seriously to the bibulous feature, except Prohibitionists, so long as the guardsmen paid for the rum they drank and they did that, but the eight days encampment cost every penny of $95,000, and that sum, as a State paper put the case, "is a good deal of good money." In an outspoken leader this week the Hartford Congant says:

respectful recognition of all classes of our city, it is "Resolved, That the members of the police force of the city of New York of all ranks cheerfully accord to the Hon. Issae Hell the chief merit in the organization and perpetuation of the first Hellef Fund, through and by which many widows and orghans have been benefited, and that he has won the sincere affection of the entire force by his zealous advocacy of all measures tending toward their welfare and advancement.

ment. "Resolved, That as he celebrates the fiftieth anniversary of his marriage on Sept. 4, 1804, we gladly take advantage of the occasion to congratulate him upon the event, to evince our regard toward him as friend and citizen, and to Sattor Andrew Peterson Probably Browned. WHITESTONE, Sept. 1. Sallor Andrew Peterson of the schooner yacht Republic is missing and the supposition is that he has been drowned. The yacht is lying at anchor off this place. Thursday night Anderson, who is a brother to the yacht's mate, went ashere on leave of ab-sence. No anchor watch was maintained that night as the weather was clear and the heat lay in a safe anchorage. Next morning the yacht's yawl was found safely thed to the end of the boat boom, but Anderson was missing. It is supposed that in the darkness he fell overboard while trying to board the yacht from the boom.

THE THREE NEW TORPEDO BOATS How They Will Compare in Size and Con

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.- The final settling of all details of the new torpedo boats may not be reached until the Ericsson has made her trial trip. With the additional craft resembling her in general characteristics, and her speed test so close at hand, it would seem advisable to await cessors. However, as has already been stated, the general plans of the latter, including their dimensions, horse power, and contract speed, have already been substantially determined, and it is known that they will be advances upon the Ericsson, although their 2416 knots will fall far short of the marvellous speed standards of the new Yarrow and Thornycroft boats or even those of Schichau and Normand.

Why they will not reach these latter is easy to understand. The appropriation of Congress for hull and machinery is $450,000, or $150,000 for each boat. The contract price for the Ericsson is $113,000, and the difference can give to the new boats one-eighth more displacement, 10 feet greater length, 6 inches more beam, 3 inches more draught, 200 more horse power, half a knot more speed, and 10 tons more coal capacity. But the crack British torpedo boat Hornet is 180 feet long, against 160 for our new torped boats, has 1856 feet beam, against their 16 feet, with the same mean draught of 5 feet, and about 220 tons displacement, against their 135. The Hornet on trial developed 4,000 horse power, against the 2,000 expected of our three new torpedo boats, with a speed exceeding 28 knots at the maximum and reaching 27,628 knots as the average of a three hours' trial, against the 24% knots to be demanded of our three torpedo boats. Mr. Yarrow be seen why, with this greater displacement and the more powerful machinery, the Hornet and Havock surpass in speed our new torpedo boats. And the striking speed of 29,268 knots has since been made for a single knot by a Thornycroft boat, the Daring. This is only one of more than thirty vessels ordered from various firms, at a cost of $195,000 down to $167,500. When this fact and the greater cheapness of shipbuilding in England are taken into consideration, it will be seen why no higher speed than 24% knots can be required of our new torpedo boats, although very likely 25 knots or even more may actually be secured, just as the Hornet exceeded her contract speed. But the dimensions of the new English boats place them in a different class, and they are called torpedo boat destroyers.

If we look at other torpedo boats exceeding
